Prodigious artist Ping Lian Yeak's paintings are available for sale at Argyle Gallery.

- If you are looking for Aboriginal art, then The Rocks is the place to be. Argyle Gallery specialises in Australian art and fine craft. Established in 2000, their range includes paintings, glassware, woodwork, bronze sculptures and Aboriginal art. All works are sourced directly from the artists and Aboriginal communities. Argyle Gallery, located in an original convict-built terrace at 21 Playfair Street, offers friendly service, worldwide shipping and local delivery.

Prodigious autistic artist Ping Lian Yeak's paintings are available for sale at Argyle Gallery. Initially Ping Lian was hyperactive, living in his own world unable to hold a pencil to write, but to strengthen his fine motor skills, his home program focused on tracing and coloring activities. Now Ping Lian is a talented artist full of love and affection.

His unique style of bold strokes and cheerful color has won over many art enthusiasts and collectors.

Ping Lian continues to create magnificent works of art using charcoal, acrylic, water colour and oil. Visit Argyle Gallery to see these extraordinary works.

The collection at Gannon House Gallery includes both Indigenous and other contemporary Australian art and craft. View an extensive array of artwork from the central and western desert including investment paintings and many bark paintings, sculpture and artifacts from Arnhem Land. Also on display is their contemporary Australian collection containing beautiful glass, ceramic, woodwork and bronze pieces as well as drawings and paintings.
